

Apostrophes

1. During the race, the runners' feet were sore and bleeding because he had not worn any shoes.
2. After the final, the wrestler's medal glistened as the bright sunlight hit it directly.
3. In the morning, the stadium's track was magnificent before it was used by the athletes.
4. The spectators' views, wherever they sat, were amazing from the new stands.

Blue table - In your English homework books write whether the sentences above are linked to a singular or plural noun (i.e. The dog's bone - singular as there is only one dog) and then write a sentence of your own about armour belonging to a soldier.

Green and red tables - In your English homework books write whether the sentences above are linked to a singular or plural noun (i.e. The dog's bone - singular as there is only one dog) and then write the sentences with the other noun type - so if you thought the sentence was singular - the dog's bone - you then rewrite the sentence using the plural version of the noun - the dogs' bones.

Purple and yellow - write 8 sentences, 4 referring to singular nouns - the dog's bone and 4 referring to plural nouns - the dogs' bones. Can you also include an adverbial and a conjunction in your sentences?