

Chick forgave him.

But as sure as the seasons change, the next time they met the chameleon changed colour and broke his promise.

But as surely as the world changes, the chameleon changed colour and broke his promise.

The bird ate the chameleon.

But as sure as the weather changes, the chameleon changed colour and broke his promise.

Chick forgave him.

Chick couldn't forgive him.

The chick turned into a bird. She came back to look for chameleon.

A chameleon met a chick where the desert meets the sea and he made a promise never to change colour.