

RE

Today, I'd like you to think about two very important words - choices and consequences.

Choice - the right or ability to choose.

Consequences - the results or effects of the choice.

I'd like you to look at these 5 different scenarios and write what you think the consequences would be for the different choices that could be made. On the final scenario you also need to add what another choice could be.

Jay finds subtraction really hard. When he sits down at his table to do his work, he doesn't know what to do.

Choice 1

Jay chooses to copy the answers from a friend.

Consequence

Choice 2

Jay chooses to ask his teacher for some extra help.

Consequence

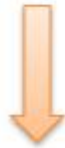

Leo's Mum tells him it's time to go home because it's nearly tea-time and she still has to cook tea. He doesn't want to go as he's enjoying playing.

Choice 1

Leo chooses to listen to his Mum.

Consequence

Choice 2

Leo chooses to ignore his Mum.

Consequence

Harry's sister Ruby is a really good footballer and wants to join the school's football team which only has boys on it.

Choice 1

Harry tells Ruby it is a bad idea.

Consequence

Choice 2

Harry says "Why not? Girls like sports too."

Consequence

Choice 3

Harry doesn't give an opinion either way.

Consequence

You find a cool robot toy in the playground.

Choice 1

You give it to an adult because you know it belongs to someone else.

Consequence

Choice 2

You keep it for yourself because you really like it.

Consequence

There is a new boy in your class. The last time he played with you in the playground he was too rough and pushed people so they fell over. Now no one wants to play with him and he's started pushing people in class too.

Choice 1

Give him another chance, he might be pushing people because he's lonely and unhappy.

Choice 2

Ignore him because you don't want to get hurt.

Choice 3

You decide...
